

Military Toronto – 1915 – World War I - Airpower

The first air field (Aerodrome) in Canada was opened at Toronto (Long Branch) in May 1915. In January 1917 England's Royal Flying Corps arrived. By the end of July 1917 three Aerodromes were open in Toronto. Long Branch, Camp Leaside (mid June 1917) and Armour Heights (July 1917). Only Long Branch and Camp Leaside were assigned military post marks. Two covers below show these marks, the third cover is addressed to the Royal Flying Corps at Armour Heights Field.
